Do not buy this work. You have too many books already.

You've probably been told this, by close friends who feel like they can tell you these things. And in return you tell those close friends that you think that maybe you have too many close friends.

So maybe to annoy those friends you should buy this work. Buy 690 books in one go. That would show them.

And the best thing is that they are very flat, so they take up a lot less room. They are very flat because they are not actually books, so being flat is also a bad thing. But did I mention they also take up a lot less room?

They are flat because they are not books, because they are drawings of books. Just the ends of books. The bit with the title on it. 690 titles of books.

And they are not even titles of books really, because we made them up. Some of them probably exist, somewhere. Some of them definitely do not exist, anywhere.

But maybe as you look at 690 drawings of 690 books with 690 made up titles, you can make up the book. Invite your close friends around to make them up too.
